

To whom it may concern,

I have resigned from Fandom, effective 2021-11-05, due to repeated demonstrations of a lack of future here. I lack confidence in the ability of Fandom leadership, all the way down to middle management, to truly cultivate a platform which they describe as “for the love of fans”.

The culture within Fandom is quite toxic, and they do not pay nearly enough for the stress involved. As such, I am moving on with other opportunities, with companies that respect their staff.

I do not expect to revisit the platform anytime soon.

You can likely reach me on Discord or LinkedIn if absolutely necessary, though I do not commit to respond.

Sincerely,

Patrick “pcj” Johnston